TEA PARTY

Monday, July 17 to Celebrate Canada's
150th Birthday!
Join in the fun by
entering a red and white Design and bring your favourite tea cup.

WINNER!

Bunchberry (Cornus Canadensis) is Canada's new national flower!
80% of us voted for this perfect choice as it has Canada right in its name and it changes with the seasons. With its showy white flowers in late
spring and summer, red
berries and great fall
colour, it forms a low, carpet-like mat of
leaves, up to four inches tall, and thrives in moist and shady locations.

Once pollinated, it produces edible fruit, a food source for black
bears, small mammals,
as well as many
migratory birds.

Bunchberry is also a
winter forage plant for deer, moose, caribou
and elk.

The Master Gardeners
of Canada, who launched this contest in the Toronto Star, will submit an online petition to Parliament to have the winner declared
Canada's official
National Flower.

GARDEN TOUR 2017

The weather was just perfect for the Garden Tour; sunny, not too hot and no rain! The Executive and Garden Tour committee would like to thank all

members, hosts and
volunteers for their assistance, as well as everyone who supported
us by purchasing tickets; 101 tickets were sold.
The Wallace House
Garden looked amazing, thanks to the City for putting down mulch
early in the season,
which helped our
dedicated volunteers
with less weeding.

*If you would like to showcase your own
garden, or have a friend, neighbour or relative in Woodbridge who would be interested in taking part of the 2018 Garden Tour, please contact
Mary, John or Joan.

Prune evergreens, especially cedars. Remove spent flowers from peonies, lilacs and other spring flowering plants.

After a good rain, fertilize lawn with a summer fertilizer. Feed container grown plants regularly, all summer long, with a 20/20/20 fertilizer.

AMARYLLIS

Last call to place your order for Amaryllis bulbs. Please see Nadina tonight.

NEAT THINGS ABOUT COIR

(Ko-yer) is a natural fibre extracted from the husks of coconut. Coir is the fibrous material found between the hard, internal shell and the outer coat of a coconut. It is used in products such as floor mats, doormats, brushes and mattresses. It is also used in upholstery padding, sacking, baskets, twine, carpets, sandals, and horticulture. White coir, harvested from unripe coconuts, is used for making finer brushes, string, rope and fishing nets. A readily renewable resource, it is a good additive to garden and houseplant soil. Combine one part coir to six parts garden soil-it will help keep plants hydrated on those hot summer days. It contains potassium, along with a handful of other nutrients, and is slower to break down than peat moss, helping with drainage. Throw a little into your fire pit-the smoke will repel mosquitoes. It is also said to be pythium resistant. Pythium is a plant parasite, formerly classified as a fungus that causes root rot and damping off disease. Coir is an important product in the world from which it comes. It provides employment for vast numbers of people.

Cameras are clicking-Clematis never looked better. Take pictures of your favourite, or a new and exciting one you've never seen before-doesn't have to be your own. You may submit two (2) pictures to Debbie Estey or Sue Fava at the September or October meetings. Winner will be announced at the November Bash. Please write your name on the back of 4x6 photos.
